8. Entries may only be entered into one of the three APEX categories, i.e.:
  - Launch category
  - Change category
  - Sustain category
9. Entries may be submitted by a team from the agency or by an individual however, the principal agency authors must be nominated for each entry, along with the marketer (client) with the main responsibility for the advertising. Acknowledgement of any significant contribution by people or organizations not part of the agency, such as specialists or consultants, must be included.
10. Each entry must be made with the written permission of both the agency's Chief Executive and Senior Client Executive responsible for the product or service on the accompanying authority form.
11. APEX places an exceptionally high premium on effective strategic and creative campaigns that are developed locally however, entries from African networks are also encouraged. If international campaigns are entered, the judges will pay particular attention to how the campaign was adapted and implemented locally.
12. Entries must be original, though parts of the material included may have been previously published.
13. If previous APEX submissions are re-entered, the judges will be looking for additional, stronger argumentation and/or evidence of effectiveness to prove effectiveness.
14. No award will be made if, in the opinion of the judges, the standard of entries was not sufficiently high.
15. All campaigns entered must have been written and placed in the media within three years of the date of submission, even if the campaign commenced earlier.
16. The judge's decision is final and no correspondence will be entered into. Any agency and/or marketer represented on the judging panel may enter APEX however these individuals will not be allowed to participate in the adjudication of entries from their organisation.

17. The ACA may publish winning entries in complete and/or summary form with due credit to the entrants. If an agency entering APEX does not have the copyright on all material/information used in the entry, the agency must obtain the necessary permission in order for the ACA to publish the material/information in complete or summary form, in physical and/or electronic format. Such permission must be granted to the ACA via the completed and signed Permission to Publish form attached to the Entry Form. Case studies submitted for APEX may be published subsequently by their authors with acknowledgement to the ACA and APEX.
18. Judges are required to sign confidentiality agreements. Agencies are therefore not allowed to submit entries on condition that one or more judges are eliminated from judging the entry. Any entrants who are concerned about confidentiality may raise their concern(s) in writing via email to apex@acasa.co.za.
19. A presentation of selected entries may be requested by the ACA from the authors for use at an open seminar or workshop.
